ARREST LEADERS OF REVOLT PLOT

American Officials Round Up Party of Mexicans Preparing to Cross Line.

SUPPLIES ARE SEIZED

Three Truck Loads of Military Material Is Captured and Eighteen
at El Paso.

El Paso, Texas, March 20.—Eighteen
Mexicans are confined in jail here,
the government has three truck loads
of military supplies and army officers
declared the revolution of General
Felipe Angeles, which was planned to start in northern Mexico May 1 in conjunction with Francisco Villa's
movement had been checked by the army of Angeles' staff.

The Mexicans were arrested near Socorro, Texas, fifteen miles south
east of here while preparing to cross
into Mexico with horses, rifles, ammunition and other military elements.
Col. Federico Verantes, chief of staff
to Angeles in 1914, and Col. Rafael Iturbide, member of a wealthy and prominent family of Mexico City, were arrested by government agents in an automobile near Socorro. Iturbide was shot in the right leg when he attempted to escape, according to the officers.
Col. Fernando Licago and Col. Manuel
Acaza of Angeles' staff also attempted
to escape and the tires of their high-
powered automobile were shot to pieces by federal officers and the men
arrested.

Fourteen Attempt Escape.

At the Socorro Ford the remaining
14 members of the alleged expedition
were awaiting their leaders and were arrested after Seventh cavalrymen
fired a volley over their heads when
they attempted to escape across the river. In this party was Col. Magda-leno Flores, a former Villa commander, who was alleged to have made
threats against the American patrols.
A quantity of ammunition was found
in the automobiles, together with
rifles, pistols, uniforms and other military supplies including a fine saddle
for Angeles' personal use. Seven horses bought recently at the United States army remount depot at Fort
Bliss, were also seized.

The Mexicans were roped together
and taken to Socorro where they were loaded in motor trucks and brought to El Paso. Charges of "setting on foot
a military expedition against a friendly country" were filed against them.
The bonds of the four staff officers
were fixed at $5,000 each and the others at $3,000 pending a hearing
Friday afternoon.

BUILDING PROGRAM STOPS

Lack of Cash Hampers Plans to Improve Railways.

Washington, March 20.—Instructions
issued by the Railroad administration will result in the temporary suspension, or postponement, of millions of dollars of railroad improvement work
because of the financial predicament caused by failure of Congress to pass appropriations. The suspension of work applies to many stations, under erection or planned, spur tracks, roadbed improvements, elevated tracks and construction of bridges and buildings.
Railroad administration officials said comparatively few men would be thrown out of work as a result of the orders.

Etta McDonnell repudiated her confession that she and her husband, Daniel McDonnell, had beaten their 12-year old daughter, Etta, to death in their home near Courtenay. Mrs. Mc-Donnell denied that she said that her husband had become enraged on discovery of the condition of the girl's bed and had beaten and kicked the child into unconsciousness, but admitted that she had attacked the girl
with a board ripped from an apple box.

GREAT CROWD PRESENT

Lodge and Lowell Debate Society
of Nations Plan.

Massachusetts Senator Attacks Proposed Covenant and His Opponent Declares It Sound.

Boston, March 20.—The merits of
proposed covenant of the league of nations were debated by Senator Henry Cabot Lodge and A. Lawrence Lowell, president of Harvard university, before an audience that followed the speakers with intense interest and
frequently expressed approval.

The debaters approached the general
topic from different angles. Senator Lodge attacked the covenant "as
agreed upon by the commission of the Peace conference" as a "porous instrument" on the interpretation of which
the signers themselves would be at odds within 12 months.

Dr. Lowell admitted that the covenant needed clarification, but argued that in substance, as a plan for the

Symphony Hall Filled.

Symphony hall was filled. Three thousand persons had seats and 300 stood. Half of the audience was made up of members of the Legislature, federal and state judiciary, governors of
New England states, army and navy
officers, members of the Harvard faculty, delegates of the Central Labor union and personal guests of the debaters. The lucky ones who had been awarded admission by chance from the 25 times as many applications made up the other half.

Governor Calvin Coolidge presided, introduced the speakers and held the watch.

WOMAN KILLED BY BOMB

California Banker's Wife Loses Life by Explosion.

Perpetrator Believed to Be Same Who Wrecked Home of Golden
State Executive.

Oakland, Cal., March 20.—Mrs.
George Greenwood, wife of an Oak-
land banker, was killed by a bomb explosion at her home. Mr. Greenwood, aroused by the explosion, looked from
an upstairs window and saw his wife's
body in the garden below.

The police believe they have two slender clues. These clues consist of six small pieces of galvanized iron
wire removed from the body by surgeons along with a bit of lead, fragments of brick and scraps of clothing,
and the fact that in January, 1918, a letter received by Mr. Greenwood demanded delivery of $5,000 at a certain
spot under penalty of having his home
destroyed by an explosion.

The letter was signed "C. C. of C."
which initials also were appended to a threatening letter received by Governor William D. Stephens before the executive mansion at Sacramento was dynamited a year ago. Thisted the police to believe that the same persons
were responsible for both explosions.

Nothing had been developed today to show whether the explosive was hurled
at Mrs. Greenwood, whether she picked
it up and it exploded in her hands, or whether she caused the detonation by
stumbling over it.

Governor Offers Reward.

Sacramento, Cal., March 20.—Governor William D. Stephens announces he will offer a reward of $1,000 for the arrest and conviction of person or persons responsible for a bomb explosion at Oakland in which Mrs. George Greenwood was killed.

cruisers, the Montana and the Pueblo,
and 14 transports. Among the latter

ment control over railroads beyond the twenty-one months provided by osed five year extension was urged only for the purpose of experimentation.

Consideration for Feminine Workers.

Paris, March 20.—Women have participated in peace negotiations for the first time in history. A delegation of more than 40, representing five nations, addressed the peace committee
on labor legislation which is drawing
up an economic and industrial program
to be carried out under the league of nations.

Mrs. J. Borden Harriman and Mrs.
Julia Barrett Rabie represented the United States. There were also delegates from Great Britain, France,
Italy and Belgium.

The women presented a resolution
in the name of "several millions of women" providing for the establishment in each country of a committee
for females composed of competent
women representing the government,
trades unions and professional women.
Every scheme affecting women workers would be submitted to these committees for advice.

Would Require Income Taxes of Fifteen Shillings to Pound.

London, March 20.—Speaking in the House of Commons, George Lambert,
former civil lord of the admiralty, said
there were two budgets this year aggregating £1,500,000,000 and that if
this sum were to be raised by taxes it
would mean 15 shillings in the pound
income tax and in the doubling of the duties on tea and sugar. The chance-
lor of the exchequer, the member added, would have to resort to borrowings. He appealed to the government
to be resolute in restoring the export
trade unhindered and unchecked "by
any absurd government regulations."

lish borough.

of 42 to 44 per cent in the coal prices
since 1913 were reported in the March
issue of the Labor Review of the Bureau of Labor statistics.

AMENDMENTS ARE OFFERED

Changes In World League Covenant to Be Considered by Supreme War Council.

British Representative Opposes Special Recognition of American Document Claiming League Agreement
Would Strengthen It.

Paris, March 20.—The supreme war
council of the peace conference will consider three amendments offered to
the covenant of the proposed League
of Nations.

Lord Robert Cecil, British representative on the League of Nations
commission, told a group of newspaper correspondents he did not expect
consideration of the amendments
would delay adoption of the covenant,
declaring they do not affect the nature of the League.

Lord Cecil said the League, as proposed, would strengthen the Monroe
doctrine, in his opinion, and he did not
favor a special reservation on that subject in the covenant.

Objects to Special Paragraph.
Asked if insertion of a special paragraph to cover the Monroe Doctrine is
possible, Cecil replied:

"I doubt the advisability of putting
any power in a special position in reference to the rest of the world."

Discussing Japan's contention for racial equality, he said: "However
much we sympathize with the theory
of racial equality, we cannot insert
such a provision in the covenant without infringing on the domestic rights

Armament Control Limited.

The conference commission on armament has eliminated indefinite control
by the Allies of German armament, following objection to that course by Admiral W. S. Benson of the United States Navy. As amended, the limitations on the German army and navy
will continue only until the delivery
of German materials, guns and ships
has been completed.

International Labor Code Finished.
The commission on international
labor legislation had probably its last
meeting today when it reached an agreement on all points at issue. The American contention that each country
should settle its internal labor problems, without invoking the power of the League of Nations, prevailed.

Financial Agreement Seen.

The big powers, it is learned are
now in practical agreement regarding
the principle of working out financial affairs, namely, that the final bill for
reparation must be based on what experts find Germany will be able to pay
over a comparatively short period of
years. With the government heads already agreed on this basis, fixing of
the definite amount of indemnity appeared to be a matter of only a few days.

Premier Lloyd George has decided to remain in Paris until the draft of the treaty of peace is concluded. It is announced officially.

Congressman Johnson Favors Six
Months' Stipend for Men.

Aberdeen, S. D., March 20.—Congressman Royal C. Johnson has arrived here from Washington and says
the short session accomplished practically nothing, especially as to legislation to aid returned sick and wounded soldiers. He says it is reasonable
for the government to extend more
benefits to the soldiers who have gone
through several battles and who have
been wounded and gassed than the $60 bonus given to all men in the service, regardless of physical handicaps.
"At the next congress I shall introduce a graduated six months pay statute based upon length and character
of service," said Mr. Johnson.

TARIFF QUESTION
COMING UP AGAIN
FORDNEY OF MICHIGAN HEADS
WAYS AND MEANS COMMITTEE
IN THE NEW HOUSE.
MAJORITY TO START THINGS
Will Formulate Program, but Fact That Administration is Democratic May Check It—Esch Is to Handle Railroad Legislation.
By EDWARD B. CLARK.
Washington.—When congress reconvenes the committees of both house and senate will have Republican majorities in control therein. Perhaps the chief interest in one way centers
in two or three great committees in the house, because these particular committees will formulate the legislation which, if enacted into law, will be most far reaching.
It must be remembered, of course,
that the administration is Democratic
while congress today is Republican.
Therefore it seems hardly likely that any great doctrinal legislative measures of the Republican party will be made into law, because presumably a Democratic president would not approve them.
Joseph W. Fordney, Republican, of Saginaw, Mich., will be the chairman of the ways and means committee in the coming congress. It is this committee which will formulate tariff legislation.
Mr. Fordney is known as a believer in a high protective tariff. There are some other Republicans on the committee who believe in a more moderate tariff, but taking the majority of the committee all in all, it represents much higher tariff views than those of the Democratic majority of the same committee in the last house.
What will the Republican party do with tariff legislation with a Democratic president in the White House?
The answer is that it will do what it can in a program way at the next session or two, and then may have to let the program go over until a Republican president is elected in order to see it put into effect.
Higher Tariff May Be Prevented.
It is within the range of possibilities, or as some would prefer to put it, of probabilities, that a Democratic president will be elected and with him a Democratic congress. In such a case the Republican program, although even put into legislative form during the next session or two, never could be given the effect of law. It is certain, however, that the Republicans in the next two years in congress will formulate a new tariff bill.
The tariff we have always with us.
It was with us during the war, although hostilities, through stoppage
to a great extent of imports, built up about the highest tariff wall that it was possible to erect. In other words, we had comparatively few imports, and as comparatively little came into the country the tariff seemingly ceased from troubling. Nevertheless the tariff was still with us, because men in congress still were thinking on it, and were often talking on it.
John Jacob Esch, Republican, of Wisconsin, will be chairman of the committee on interstate commerce. Mr.
Esch's name was connected with the first railroad rebate bill which went through the lower house in the time of Theodore Roosevelt. It was known as the Esch-Townsend measure. Curiously enough the name of Mr. Townsend, now United States senator from Michigan, was more intimately associated with the bill than that of Mr. Esch, whose name led the complet. That first railroad rebate bill, as it generally was called, went through the house, but the senate failed to act,
and it was not until the next session
that another bill formulated in the house, and known as the Hepburn measure, was passed by both houses
and signed by the president.
Big Job for Mr. Esch.
Now Mr. Esch of Wisconsin is to have another hand at railroad legislation. It is a big job that he has ahead of him. It must be remembered again
that the administration is Democratic.
A bill which shall deal with the future of the railroads, and which must receive the sanction of the president in order to become a law, must be free
from an approach to partisanship.
Otherwise a veto may await it.
The way that the name of Representative Townsend of Michigan became so closely connected with the first railroad rebate bill of Roosevelt's time was like this: Mr. Townsend had made a study of railroad matters in his home state. He was a new member of congress and comparatively little was known about him. However, he had a plan of legislation which seemed to appeal to President Roosevelt, and he gave it his sanction. There was a great deal of comment and a lot of surprise in congress when a new member thus succeeded in getting into the presidential and congressional limelight before he had been in congress more than a few weeks.
The Republicans probably will have considerable trouble in getting any legislation through for the next year or two if it has in it any of the indoc-trinal policies of the party as a party.
The chances are that in all big matters they will be compelled to keep away from such doctrines or else will put through the legislation knowing full well that it probably will be revoted. Both parties are alike in this matter when the opposition has control of the White House.

SUPERSTITION AN OLD ONE
In All Ages the Belief in "Crystal Gazing" Has Been More or Less Strongly Held.
Crystal gazing, or "serging," as writers on the subject term it, has been practiced pretty well over the world from ancient times to the present. In early times they used to scry in springs and bowls of water. In the British museum there is a crystal ball said to have been used by Dr. Dee, a wizard of the time of Queen Bess, Cagliostro, that sublime humbug of the eighteenth century, used to place a pail of water on the stage and request some child
to come out of the audience and gaze into it. The child would babble of castles, pageants and other marvelous pictures he could see in the clear liquid. The society for psychical research, certain of whose members, one would almost conclude, are ready to swallow whole superstition in any shape, has done some crystal gazing
and at last accounts had glass balls
for sale at its headquarters in London.
The late Andrew Lang stated his belief that some people have the faculty
"of seeing faces, places, persons in motion in glass ball, in water, ink
or any clear deep," but scouts the notion that scrying can accomplish anything in the way of finding lost property or in foretelling the future, as has been claimed for it by crystal gazing enthusiasts. As a crystal ball is not absolutely necessary, by all accounts,
and a glass pitcher of water will do just as well, almost anybody may make experiments in scrying. The liquid first turns black, it is claimed, then come the pictures. Some of us may feel that it would require a wait of at least a hundred years before anything could be seen.

An Inside Bath
Makes You Look
and Feel Fresh Says a glass of hot water with phosphate before breakfast
keeps illness away.
This excellent, common-sense
health measure being adopted by millions.
Physicians the world over recommend the inside bath, claiming this is of vastly more importance than outside cleanliness, because the skin pores do not absorb impurities into the blood, causing ill health, while the pores in the ten yards of bowels do.
Men and women are urged to drink
each morning, before breakfast a glass of hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it, as a harmless means of helping to wash
from the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels the previous day's indigestible
material, poisons, sour bile and toxins;
thus cleansing, sweetening and purifying the entire alimentary canal before putting more food into the stomach.
Just as soap and hot water cleanse and freshen the skin, so hot water and limestone phosphate act on the elimi-
native organs.
Those who wake up with bad breath,
coated tongue, nasty taste or have a sallow, aching head, a hollow complexion,
acid stomach; others who are subject
to bilious attacks or constipation,
should obtain a quarter pound of limestone phosphate at the drug store.
This will cost very little but is sufficient to demonstrate the value of inside bathing. Those who continue it each morning are assured of pronounced results, both in regard to health and appearance.

ILLUSTRATED LECTURE GIVEN

Miss Agnes Peterson Spoke on Subject—Miss Evans Spoke on Minimum Wage Laws

Masonic hall was filled last evening with an interested audience of women who listened to Miss Agnes Peterson tell of women in war industries and of how better conditions for women workers have resulted because of the establishment during the war of the National Woman in Industry Service under the U. S. Department of Labor. At this time in recognition of the national importance of women's work and its conditions the federal government calls upon the industries of the country to co-operate with state and federal agencies in maintaining standards. Reconstruction will give an opportunity for a new upbuilding of safeguards to conserve alike the industrial efficiency and the health of women and to make it impossible for selfish interests to exploit them as unwilling competitors in lowering standards of wages, hours and working conditions which are for the best interests alike of the workers, the industries and the citizenship of the country. Miss Peterson said that the wages of teachers too should be carefully looked into and adjusted to meet changed ideals and conditions, etc., to furnish support for the full year.

Miss Evans, secretary of the minimum wage commission, who came in the place of Miss Burton, explained the new minimum wage bill and hoped the women of Minnesota would interest themselves in its behalf. Any one interested in a further understanding of problems relating to the subject may write the Woman in Industry Service, Department of Labor, Washington, D. C. Miss Agnes Peterson, head of Bureau for Women and Children, Old Capitol, St. Paul, or Miss Eliza P. Evans, State Capitol, St. Paul.

After the meeting the women employees of the city including teachers and nurses, assisted by a committee from the Brainerd Woman's Council of Defense, held an informal reception for the speakers, an invitation being extended to all present to remain.

Those in the receiving line beside the speakers were Miss Grewcock, Miss Scott, Miss English and Mrs. Armstrong. Miss Grewcock is the local chairman for Woman in Industry and her survey for Brainerd received especially favorable comment at state headquarters. The high school Glee Club led by Miss Cronk, led in community singing during the evening and sang two songs most delightfully.

Sincere thanks are due for the use of Masonic hall including the stere-

Loss Was Serious.

"You can't alarm me, Big Ben," doesn't seem at all funny in print, but at one of the Broadway theaters last night, when the leading man addressed this line to another leading character, an old gentleman in an upper box laughed so heartily, as did the audience, that his set of false teeth shot out and landed plumb in the lap of an ensign who was seated in the orchestra. The portion of the audience that witnessed the accident went into hysterics to the evident discomfort of the teeth's owner, and it was some time before the show could continue. In the meantime, the toothless individual sought out a balcony usher, to whom he tried to explain his plight, but the loss of the teeth left him more or less inarticulate. The usher, who was unaware of what happened, attributed his wild pantomimic actions to that of a crazy man, and she ran downstairs to report to the manager that "some guy in the balcony was off his nut."—New York Sun.

He Found Them.

"I have often heard that if a feller from the country got lonesome here in Kay See," remarked the gent from Jimpsom Junction, "all he had to do to find somebody he knew was to go over on Twelfth street. It's a plumb fact, too! I tried it yesterday. I had been in the city three days, and was getting kinda hungry for the sight of a familiar face, and so I sauntered over on Twelfth. And inside of half an hour I had been tackled by 'leven fellers from my home town for money to get back there on."—Kansas City Star.

Strange Influence Hovers Over Play

(By United Press)

New York, March 20.—Spiritualists in England and America are watching with keen interest the extraordinary and unique demonstration of spiritualistic influences which are said to have been responsible for the success of the play, "The Invisible Man," now playing at the Harris theatre here. Hereward Carrington, a well-known American psychic research authority, is among those who maintain that "The Invisible Man" is being supported by the spirits.

The play which has also been produced in London, concerns information transmitted by the spirit of a dead man for the unraveling of a crime committed before his death. He alone has the key. When the play reached New York practically every theatrical dramatic condemned it in unmeasured terms. The critics were almost a unit in declaring that the play was uninteresting, crudely constructed, and wholly improbable. They said, further, that the playwright had used ancient and melodramatic incidents and was "talking through his hat." Ordinarily, this should have put a damper on the production. But such was not the case.

In spite of the critics the play picked up steadily and quickly became one of the greatest successes of the year. Spiritualists, in explaining this, said that the throngs were drawn to the theatre by the spirits of departed friends and relatives. One of the odd features in connection with the play's successful run was the patronage bestowed by returning soldiers and sailors. Along Broadway it is a generally recognized fact that this is practically the only play that the fighting men are paying money to see.

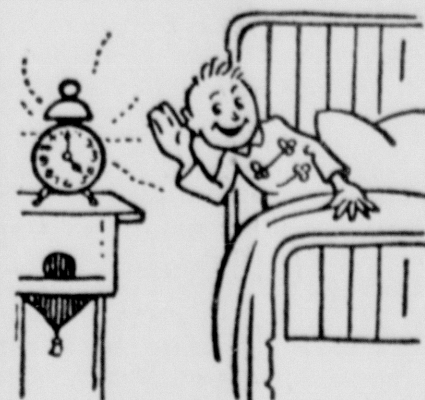

When the subject was mentioned to Bartley Cushing, the famous American producer who staged "The Invisible Man," he declared that there was no doubt in his mind as to the influences hovering over the play. Even while the play was in rehearsal, he said, the spiritualistic power was in operation.

"I am as hard-headed and as practical as the average person concerned with producing plays," said Cushing, "and I certainly had no interest in spiritualism before putting on 'The Invisible Man.' But I have changed my views. I positively affirm that spiritualistic assistance was given us in making the play ready for the public. I repeatedly felt strange influences guiding me and directing me in my efforts to secure certain novel effects. Even the actors felt these influences. I cannot explain it, but I felt that extra mundane influences were hovering over the Harris theatre. Miss Flora MacDonald, who, in the play, receives the message from the spirit which gives the clue to the real criminal, has become so converted that she has received a message from her father who died last year. As for myself, I am beginning a complete study of spiritualism."

"Milady's Wardrobe"

St. Paul, March 20.—Milady's wardrobe—now in the making—will be a strict departure from anything that had to do with the war.

The spring styles now showing reflect the thrills of homecomings and reunions. Two years of nervous tension has completely reacted upon woman's dress so now there's to be an orgy of frills, furbelows and fantasies.

Just why "dust color" is to be the prevailing shade in women's dress dealers do not definitely explain—but they say it's "One of the very best spring colors—and its new."

The reporter had a hunch that the dust color popularity resulted from a thinning of khaki dyes—but he was promptly and properly "sat upon" for his insinuations.

Jackets that cannot possibly be buttoned across the front are to be the things. They will be re-inforced by fancy sewed in vests of all sorts and descriptions and sh-sh-sh-h-h-h! The girls won't have to wear waists at all with these new spring suits. The vest will furnish all the covering necessary.

For the northwest trade manufacturers are making particular styles in skirts and its costing them more goods to do it. Many women of this section do not favor split or slit skirts so it was necessary to fill up the skirt with extra flaps.

NOT SO BIG

It has always been our impression that one million gallons of water was a large quantity, and that Brainerd was drawing heavily on its supply, but upon investigation we find that we have been wrongly impressed. One million gallons per day figures about 700 gallons per minute. We are told that an iron mine pumping only 700 gallons-per-minute is a "dry mine;" and to miners the remark "1000 gallons-per-minute" passes in one ear and out of the other; 2000 gallons-per-minute is considered a large quantity; 3000 and 5000 gallons-per-minute constitutes a "wet mine" and means 5 million to 7 million gallons per day. We are told that a 700 gallon stream at a mine is only a small one as it appears at the top of the shaft and trickles away to a new resting place. Even 1000 gallons-per-minute (1,440,000 gallons per day) is a far smaller stream than one suspects. So we are NOT SO BIG after all.

DID IT FOR EXCITEMENT

It is reported George Hyatt, Anoka Herald printer, committed the various alleged robberies of banks, etc., for the excitement that he gained. The average small town newspaper, if it heeds to the line, furnishes excitement enough for editor and staff of workers. In other words, Hyatt not finding excitement enough setting type for the Herald, tackled banks, etc. to satisfy his unnatural craving. After the robbery the Anoka Herald certainly did steam up in the way of excitement, actually holding over a day on publication in order to get the full story of the alleged delinquencies of its printer.

PILLAGER SATISFIED ANYWAY

Pillager, any way, is satisfied with a new court house for Brainerd. The Pillager Herald remarks editorially: "The new court house of Crow Wing county, it is said will cost $250,000, and is none too much for such a wealthy county as Crow Wing. One or more of the range towns are jealous and kicking, but we are glad that our neighbor is to have a court house commensurate with its importance and also a new N. P. depot of nearly equal cost. Gee whizz, how delighted we are."

Many Soldiers Apply for Government Help

(By United Press)
 Washington, March 20.—Not every wounded American soldier is entitled to retraining by the Federal Board for Vocational Training. Under the law, the soldier must first have been awarded compensation by the War Risk Insurance Bureau. To date the Bureau has awarded payments for injuries to only 3,655 men who are now receiving special training, but many thousands more have their applications under consideration by the bureau at this time.

New Use for Movie Cameras.

During the eclipse of the sun last summer, Professor Frost of the Yerkes observatory used a movie camera to photograph a very evasive phenomenon—the outburst of reversed spectral lines at the instant of totality. This instant can never be precisely predicted, but by setting the film running before the flash the elusive lines can be caught.

Sieges of Constantinople.

In its long and varied history Constantinople has suffered the privation of a besieged city thirty times, but it has been captured only three—by the Venetians and Crusaders in 1203 and 1204, by Mohammed II, leader of the Turkish invaders in 1453, and by the allies last year.

WHY YOU SHOULD VOTE WATER WORKS BONDS

A series of articles prepared by the Water & Light Board to explain why new water works are necessary, what is planned to replace the old works, and the suitability of that which is advocated.

Quantity of Water Required

The board has been able in the last year to get a good check or count on the quantity of water required by Brainerd. For several years a daily count has been taken of the water pumped, but the method was only approximate and subject to great errors, as has been amply proved. The method depended on the piston displacement, that is, while the pump was in action. As the wear of a steam pump is in the piston cylinder, it is obvious that if the pump does not work perfectly the leakage (or slippage) is great and the calculated amount of water is not displaced with each stroke of the piston. How much this loss is, is purely a guess; usually an allowance is made for slippage, but when a pump becomes old and worn, this allowance is not only surprisingly great but extremely variable.

Without Brainerd growing noticeably, in any sense effecting the consumption of water, our calculation showed a constantly increasing total per annum of large proportion and the per capita consumption made it appear that our people were in the class of extravagant water users. Our best guess would place the actual consumption of nearer one half the calculated amount. But in our work on the new supply we kept in mind constantly the larger figure, feeling that if that total could be obtained we would be absolutely safe.

The important influences in per capita consumption are:

- Industries
- Wealth and habits of people
- Public fountains
- Lawns
- Street sprinkling and cleaning
- Schools, fires, sewers
- Flowage to prevent freezing
- Leakage and waste
- Good quality of water, plenty of it, and good pressure.

The use of water falls into the following classes:

- (1) Domestic use
- (2) Commercial use
- (3) Public use
- (4) Loss and waste

For each the gallons per capita can be estimated from statistics gathered for many years from many towns. The maximum consumption for a town the size and kind of Brainerd should be 1,150,000 gallons per day.

There is no question about being able to meet this demand in the easiest manner. The figures may look big to the layman, but in reality the quantity is small when it compared to quantities of water pumped daily in our mining operations.

Cold Agree Spiritually But Split Materially

(By United Press)

San Francisco, March 20.—George Joseph Taylor, who knows where heaven is, and who is about to tell the world its exact location in a book, is seeking a divorce from Marie Zentgraf Taylor, his million dollar New York bride.

After less than a year of married life Mrs. Taylor has returned to her Riverside Drive home in New York where she will continue studying spiritual subjects and preparing lectures.

So long as the two lived in the spiritual world, in which they were engrossed, they were happy together, Taylor said. But when they came down to material things they learn they were not suited.

FITTING MEMORIAL TO COL. ROOSEVELT

FOUNDATION FOR THE CONSERVATION OF WILD LIFE GETS STRONG SUPPORT.

Former President Was Keen Field Naturalist as Well as Hunter of Game, and Sought to Prevent Extinction of Species.

By EDWARD B. CLARK.

Washington.—Before the members of the Roosevelt permanent memorial national committee are two plans suggestive of the form which the memorial should take. Both of them are appealing and it seems to be generally believed that both may be adopted.

One of the plans has in view the providing of a fund for the Americanization of incoming foreigners, and the other is for a fund for the establishment in Washington of a foundation for the conservation of wild life, primarily in the United States but incidentally throughout the world.

It is with the second plan that this article concerns itself. The Americanization plan probably will strike all Americans, and especially those who knew Theodore Roosevelt's interest in the subject, as being fitting and proper. Exactly the same words may be used concerning the second plan.

Theodore Roosevelt through all his life was a conservationist. He believed that the useful birds and mammals should be preserved, but also that sportsmen should be allowed to take their toll under such restrictions as would insure perpetuation of species. The economic value of the birds and mammals was strongly urged by Colonel Roosevelt. His interest was keen and his writings and his actions give sufficient evidence of his anxiety lest the wild life should perish from the earth.

For the Conservation Plan.

Among the supporters of the conservation of wild life plan which has been submitted to Col. William B. Thompson, chairman of the memorial national committee, are George Shiras, 3rd, famous faunal naturalist; E. W. Nelson, chief of the bureau of biological survey in the department of agriculture; Charles Sheldon, sportsman, naturalist and conservationist, and John B. Burnham, president of the American Game Protective association.

The contention of these men is that the colonel's well-known interest in nature throughout his life, both as one of the keenest and most observant of American field naturalists, and as a hunter of big game, justifies in full measure a memorial of the kind proposed.

The project calls for the establishment at Washington of an institution to be known as the "Roosevelt foundation for the conservation of wild life." It is proposed that the foundation be governed by a board of trustees under whom there shall be a director to control its activities. In a general way the activities will include:

- Investigations necessary to supply accurate information concerning wild life; to secure data concerning valuable species threatened with extermination and to make the foundation a central bureau from which conservationists can obtain the necessary facts to work effectively.

Strongly Urged by E. W. Nelson.

It was E. W. Nelson, chief of the bureau of biological survey, who after Colonel Roosevelt, then President Roosevelt, had unburdened himself on the subject of the "nature fakers," wrote to the greater naturalists of the country and asked them to give their views concerning the evil which the president had attacked in his interview, an interview which, I hope with becoming modesty, I can say I wrote.

The great naturalists of the country, one and all, stood by the president in his expressed views on the subject of the men who wrote untruths concerning nature. Today Mr. Nelson said in connection with the proposed memorial:

"Such an institution as the foundation is urgently needed. Most well-informed people now appreciate the value and importance of wild life and the need for its conservation. The perpetuation of our bird life is essential to successful agriculture and forest growth, and the perpetuation of wild game is an insurance for the opportunity of healthful out-of-door activities, such as those which transformed Colonel Roosevelt from weakly youth to the magnificent physique we all admired. This foundation presents an opportunity that has few parallels. The institution will be unique and will quickly become of world-wide influence."

Again it can be said that the men who love nature, who love proper sport, but who support conservation of the wild life, believe that a memorial in the proposed form would meet in all ways the wishes of the man in whose honor its creation is proposed.

Monster Theatrical Circuit for Soldiers

(By the Overseas Camp Dodge News Service)

Gondrecourt, France (Special by Mail)—Men in the Eighty-eight division are now being entertained with shows, minstrels, movies, vaudeville, and singing every night in every one of the thirty towns of the Gondrecourt billeting area.

Under the direction of Lieut. Arthur Kachel, division entertainment officer, the plan to keep the men amused has developed into a monster theatrical system. Every unit has been urged to get up some kind of a show and these productions are being sent from place to place both in the Eighty-eight and other divisions.

In addition to the shows by troupes of the division, outfits of entertainers from other units are being secured for the men. The other divisions are co-operating heartily in an exchange of players. Everything possible is being done by the division officers to furnish the men with amusements.

Lieut. Kachel also is forming a big divisional show and it soon will be ready to start upon a tour of the towns embracing an area of about thirty square miles.

The hardest problem of all has been to find places where the entertainments can be given. In the larger towns this has not been so great, but in the many little country places there are great difficulties. In some of the towns French billets, and also American, have been converted into temporary theatres. Stages have been erected and as the troupes carry their own scenery, creditable entertainments are always given.

Another hard condition is the lighting situation. Candles and oil lamps are used almost exclusively in the Gondrecourt area for illumination. Big carbide lamps are now being secured for this purpose.

An unusually large amount of talent has been discovered in the division and some of the acts are as good as will be seen in the higher class of vaudeville houses. The humor is original and the songs are mostly catchy parodies on popular pieces.

A large number of musical instruments have been secured from various sources and some of the troupes have good orchestras accompanying them. One company of musicians has toured practically all of this section of France and calls for them have been received from some far distant places.

Every man who has talent for acting or for writing catchy and humorous songs and witticisms for the "boards" is being used. "The more 'stuff' we have to work with, the better will be our entertainments," Lieut. Kachel has informed the men, and that means more happy men in the division.

Conference Discusses Rehabilitation Work

(By United Press)

New York, March 20.—Delegates here today from all the allied countries are giving serious consideration to the rehabilitation of disabled soldiers and sailors who had part in the great war.

The conference, which will last until March 22, is under the auspices of the Red Cross Institute for Crippled and Disabled Men and the Red Cross Institute for the Blind.

Some of the best known men in the field of rehabilitation delivered addresses and outlined plans for the care of the disabled. Among these was Dr. Maurice Bourillon, president of the Permanent International Committee on War Cripples; Edmund Drouot, director of the School of Re-education for Maimed Soldiers, at Montpellier, France and many others.

Belgium, England, Canada and other countries were represented at the meeting by experienced workers, and the Federal Board for Vocational Education was represented by Dr. C. A. Prosser, James P. Monroe and Arthur E. Holder.

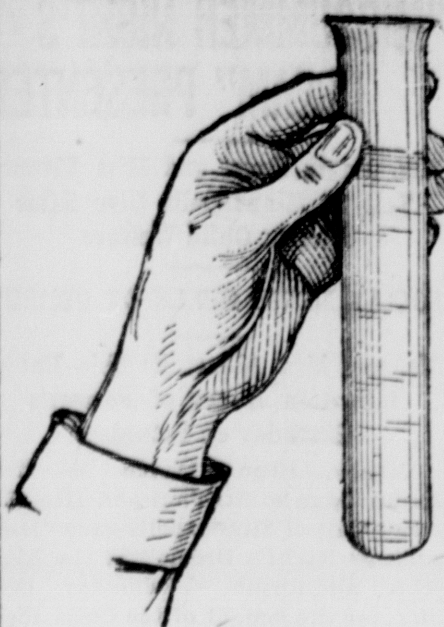

A wide range of subjects were discussed, including a national program of rehabilitation, the American program of compensation and functional restoration.

The American delegates listened with keen interest to the details of the rehabilitation work as carried on in Europe. As a result of the conference great impetus was given the movement here to care for the disabled.

The interests of employers in rehabilitation work were also discussed at some length.

HEALTH TALK

BY DR. VALENTINE MOFF.

All the blood in the body goes thru the kidneys within a few minutes. Therefore the kidneys are very important in health or disease because they filter out of the blood most of the waste (poisonous substances) and the blood then flows on toward the heart thru the kidney vein. What the kidney takes out of the blood forms urine. So it is very important to have the water tested by a chemist, at least once a year. I would suggest that everybody send a sample to Dr. Pierce's Laboratory in Buffalo, N. Y., and receive back a thorough chemical and microscopic test, free of charge.

The kidneys and bladder suffer from the wear and tear, and we get chronic inflammations sometimes indicated by backache, painful voiding of water—dull, heavy feelings. Perhaps the urine acid is stored up in the system in excessive amount, and consequently when the waste acids are deposited in muscles and joints one suffers from Lumbago (pain in back), rheumatic pains, gout, etc.

Nothing will act so nicely as "Auric" (anti-uric-acid)—a recent discovery of Dr. Pierce's which can be had at all drug stores. "Auric" washes away the poisons, cleanses the bladder and kidneys—rendering them antiseptic—consequently one is free of lumbago, rheumatism, gout, and the body is put into a clean, healthy state.

Fighting Men Were Disabled in Camps

(By United Press)

Washington, March 20.—Claims presented to the War Risk Insurance Bureau by disabled soldiers show that only a small portion of them were disabled in battle as compared with those remaining in camp.

Of the first 6,396 claims sent into the bureau only one and three-tenths per cent—83 men—received their disabilities in battle, while 68.9 per cent were disabled in camp, either in this country or overseas.

This percentage will, of course, be greatly altered as the men, returning from France, turn in their claims, yet officials of the bureau predict that the majority of claims will come from men disabled while in training. As the soldier becomes more thoroughly trained in the methods of warfare and camp life, the danger of being disabled is lessened, it was pointed out.

CHANGE AT THE WESTERN UNION

Office in Brainerd Now Closes at 6 in the Evening, Not Open Any More After Supper

NIGHT WORK SHIFTED TO RY.

Operators There are Busy Handling Trains and Commercial Work is Added Burden

For the first time within the memory of man in Brainerd the Western Union has ceased to keep its Brainerd office open after supper. The usual hours are 8 to 12, 1 to 6 P. M., and 7 to 8 P. M.

Now the 7 to 8 P. M. session has been discontinued and night letters, etc., will have to be taken to the depot to insure transmission.

Operators at the depot, by the way, have their hands full with train business and the commercial work of the Western Union therefore becomes an added burden.

The Chamber of Commerce and business men generally as well as the local news service is vitally interested in the Western Union schedule. Some reason should be assigned for discontinuing the office after 6 P. M.

Spring will soon be here, tourists arriving by the score and business generally increasing and a Western Union office closed after 6 P. M. will make the town appear dead.

Another point brought up by a business man is the fact that the railway company has no method for delivery of telegrams received after 6 P. M. For instance, if a lady wired her husband at 6:30 from St. Paul to be at the midnight train to meet her, and providing the sender has no telephone in Brainerd, such message would undoubtedly go undelivered and the man would probably receive it next morning after his wife had arrived on the train and walked home alone.

POLITICAL POINTERS PERTINENTLY PRINTED

Brainerd's city election on April will behold a field of candidates for aldermen. The first ward to date has five contestants, the second ward four, the third wards two, the fourth ward five and the fifth ward six. Two aldermen are to be selected from each ward, one for a four year and one for a two year term.

John A. Hoffbauer, of the Dispatch, is a candidate for alderman in the fifth ward. If the voters of the ward want an enterprising, progressive representative on the city council, they can not do better than elect Mr. Hoffbauer. He'll be on the job all the time.

James R. Smith, a former assessor of the city, has announced his candidacy for the position. He is a real estate man, experienced in values of realty and personal property and knows the city thoroughly.

H. F. Michael, well known business man, has announced his candidacy for alderman of the second ward for the two year term. This is the first time friends of Mr. Michael have been successful in inducing him to enter the lists for office.

With that the major launched out upon a long lecture on the significance and value of the salute, while the lieutenant, now standing stiffly at attention, was drenched to the skin.

A few days later the major was afflicted with toothache and sought the services of a dental surgeon. As he reclined in the chair, he thought he detected a peculiar expression of satisfaction on the young dentist's face.

SEES NEW SPIRIT IN TRADE WORLD

Secretary Redfield Addresses Convention of Business Men at Minneapolis.

Speaker Asserts Constructive Energies and Burying Cutthroat Competition Will Carry American Flag to Every Land.

Minneapolis, March 20.—A new spirit is dominating American business—one of the great unseen things for which Americans died on the battlefields of France—a spirit which is moving the nation toward constructive energies, is burying cutthroat competition and will carry the Stars and Stripes to every country, bearing the message of humanity and the willingness to help without the desire of personal gain. These were among the deductions of William C. Redfield, secretary of commerce and labor, presented to Northwest business men in an eloquent address in the Auditorium.

Mr. Redfield, as one of the principal speakers at the Better Business convention, which opened a two-day session, appealed to business interests of the nation to profit from Germany, a nation, he said, that had developed business and industry to a high degree of efficiency but which could not survive because it was rotten at the core—without a soul. In the new theories of business, Mr. Redfield saw a more human and comradely relation between employer and employee, and a keener realization of this nation's duty to the world in aiding the stricken nations and cultivating foreign trade.

Success Not Final Test.
"What is America's business to be?" he asked. "In quantity? Shall we expand and invade foreign shores purely for the desire of personal gain, regardless of humanitarian principles? Success in business is not the final test. Six years ago we felt the appeal of German business success strongly. We marveled at that nation's perfect organization. Her wares had found ready markets in our country, in nearly every other country, too. That great commercial machine could not survive because it was rotten at the heart. When I think of the Germany of today and the Germany of six years ago I am thrilled with the truth of that proverb, 'What shall it profit a nation if it gain the world and lose its own soul?'"

"The crime of Germany was committed by those who stole the soul from the nation. When the test of God was placed on her, Germany crumbled. What have we learned from Germany? That the life of a nation is in the abundance of its soul and in its manhood."

Reading advertisements will save your time

The wise shopper keeps in touch with the advertisements of her favorite stores. When she sees announcements of goods in which she is interested, she knows right where to go to find them. She knows when they are put on sale.

No time is lost in aimless looking and asking. Reading the advertisements saves her time for other duties or pleasures.

When parents decide to send a boy or girl away to school, they cannot take the time to go and inspect a great number of schools from which to choose. They study the advertisements of schools and to the ones that seem to offer right conditions they write for catalogs.

When a man decides to buy an automobile, he reads carefully the advertisements which tell about the different makes of cars and then he calls to see only those in which he is interested. He does not start out by hunting up the salesrooms and looking at all the cars sold.

These are only a few of the ways in which reading advertisements saves the time of readers. There are many others.

Your daily newspaper is full of advertisements which are not only interesting but have some special message of benefit to you.

Make a practice of reading them. You will find your time saved and your money better spent.

at El Paso.

El Paso, Texas, March 20.—Eighteen
Mexicans are confined in jail here,

declared the revolution of General
Felipe Angeles, which was planned to
start in northern Mexico May 1 in
conjunction with Francisco Villa's
movement had been checked by the arrest of Angeles' staff.

The Mexicans were arrested near Socorro, Texas, fifteen miles south
east of here while preparing to cross
into Mexico with horses, rifles, am-
munition and other military elements.
Col. Federico Verantes, chief of staff
to Angeles in 1914, and Col. Rafael

prominent family of Mexico City, were
shot in the right leg when he attempt-
ed to escape, according to the officers.
Col. Fernando Lico and Col. Manuel
Acaza of Angeles' staff also attempted
powered automobile were shot to
arrested.

Fourteen Attempt Escape.
At the Socorro Ford the remaining
14 members of the alleged expedition
were awaiting their leaders and were
arrested after Seventh cavalrymen
fired a volley over their heads when
they attempted to escape across the
river. In this party was Col. Magda-
leno Flores, a former Villa commander, who was alleged to have made
threats against the American patrols.
A quantity of ammunition was found
in the automobiles, together with
rifles, pistols, uniforms and other mil-
horses bought recently at the United States army remount depot at Fort
Bliss, were also seized.

and taken to Socorro where they were
loaded in motor trucks and brought to El Paso. Charges of "setting on foot
a military expedition against a friend-
The bonds of the four staff officers
were fixed at $5,000 each and the
others at $3,000 pending a hearing
Friday afternoon.

Lodge and Lowell Debate Society of Nations Plan.

Massachusetts Senator Attacks Proposed Covenant and His Opponent Declares It Sound.

Boston, March 20.—The merits of
proposed covenant of the league of na-
Cabot Lodge and A. Lawrence Lowell,

frequently expressed approval.

agreed upon by the commission of the Peace conference" as a "porous instru-
ment" on the interpretation of which
the signers themselves would be at
odds within 12 months.

Dr. Lowell admitted that the covenant needed clarification, but argued
that in substance, as a plan for the

eral and state judiciary, governors of

California Banker's Wife Loses
Life by Explosion.

Wrecked Home of Golden

Oakland, Cal., March 20.—Mrs.
George Greenwood, wife of an Oak-
land banker, was killed by a bomb exploded at her home. Mr. Greenwood,
aroused by the explosion, looked from
an upstairs window and saw his wife's
body in the garden below.

The police believe they have two
slender clues. These clues consist of
wire removed from the body by sur-
geons along with a bit of lead, frag-
ments of brick, and scraps of clothing,
and the fact that in January, 1918, a
letter received by Mr. Greenwood de-
manded delivery of $5,000 at a certain
spot under penalty of having his home
destroyed by an explosion.

The letter was signed "C. C. of C.,"
which initials also were appended to a
threatening letter received by Governor William D. Stephens before the executive mansion at Sacramento was dynamited a year ago. This led the police to believe that the same persons
were responsible for both explosions.
at Mrs. Greenwood, whether she picked
it up and it exploded in her hands, or
whether she caused the detonation by
stumbling over it.

first time in history. A delegation of
more than 40, representing five nations, addressed the peace committee
on labor legislation which is drawing
up an economic and industrial program
to be carried out under the league of
nations.

Mrs. J. Borden Harriman and Mrs.
Julia Harrett Rablee represented the United States. There were also dele-
Italy and Belgium.

women" providing for the establish-
for females composed of competent
women representing the government,
trades unions and professional women.
Every scheme affecting women workers would be submitted to these committees for advice.

Would Require Income Taxes of Fifteen Shillings to Pound.

House of Commons, George Lambert,
former civil lord of the admiralty, said
there were two budgets this year ag-
this sum were to be raised by taxes it
would mean 15 shillings in the pound
income tax and in the doubling of the
duties on tea and sugar. The chance-
lor of the exchequer, the member added, would have to resort to borrow-
ings. He appealed to the government
trade unhindered and unchecked "by

Mexican Mission in Rio Janeiro.

Buenos Aires, March 20.—A mission sent by the Mexican university has arrived in Rio Janeiro, according to a dispatch to La Razon. The mission purposes to bring about an exchange of student ideas and hopes to foster a better understanding of Mexico.

Boxing Bill Is Killed.

boxing commission and legalizing boxing contests, was defeated on final roll call in the house.

ment of wireless telephony between Ireland and Canada is announced by the Marconi company.

Boston, March 20.—A casket made from the rails of the dock in the old Guild hall in Boston, England, where in 1629 the Pilgrim fathers were tried in non-conformist proceedings, has been presented to this city by the English borough.

44 Per Cent Coal Increase Since 1913.

Washington, March 20.—Increases
of 42 to 44 per cent in the coal prices
since 1913 were reported in the March
issue of the Labor Review of the Bureau of Labor statistics.

Changes In World League Coven-

cial Recognition of American Docu-
Would Strengthen It.

Paris, March 20.—The supreme war
council of the peace conference will
consider three amendments offered to
the covenant of the proposed League
of Nations.

Lord Robert Cecil, British representative on the League of Nations
commission, told a group of newspa-
per correspondents he did not expect
consideration of the amendments
would delay adoption of the covenant,
declaring they do not affect the nature of the League.

Lord Cecil said the League, as proposed, would strengthen the Monroe
doctrine, in his opinion, and he did not
favor a special reservation on that subject in the covenant.

Asked if insertion of a special paragraph to cover the Monroe Doctrine is
possible, Cecil replied:

"I doubt the advisability of putting
any power in a special position in reference to the rest of the world."

Discussing Japan's contention for
racial equality, he said: "However
much we sympathize with the theory
such a provision in the covenant with-
out infringing on the domestic rights

Armament Control Limited.

The conference commission on armament has eliminated indefinite control
by the Allies of German armament, following objection to that course by Admiral W. S. Benson of the United States Navy. As amended, the limitations on the German army and navy
will continue only until the delivery
of German materials, guns and ships
has been completed.

International Labor Code Finished.

The commission on international
labor legislation had probably its last
meeting today when it reached an
American contention that each country
should settle its internal labor problems, without invoking the power of

Financial Agreement Sealed.

The big powers, it is learned are
now in practical agreement regarding
the principle of working out financial
affairs, namely, that the final bill for
reparation must be based on what ex-
over a comparatively short period of
ready agreed on this basis, fixing of
the definite amount of indemnity ap-
days.

Premier Lloyd George has decided to remain in Paris until the draft of the
treaty of peace is concluded, it is announced officially.

Aberdeen, S. D., March 20.—Congressman Royal C. Johnson has arrived here from Washington and says
the short session accomplished practically nothing, especially as to legislation to aid returned sick and wounded soldiers. He says it is reasonable
for the government to extend more
benefits to the soldiers who have gone
through several battles and who have
been wounded and gassed than the $60 bonus given to all men in the service, regardless of physical handicaps.
"At the next congress I shall introduce a graduated six months pay statute based upon length and character

WOMAN THREATENS WILSON

Hungarian Countess Is Being Held by Federal Officials.

Chicago, March 20.—Countess Aurelia Bethlen, Hungarian noble woman and Bahai priestess, is being held by federal authorities, pending a hearing on a charge of sending a threatening letter to President Wilson, addressed to Paris.

The countess, who claims she was a lady in waiting to Empress Elizabeth of Austria, was arrested by secret service operatives on a warrant sworn out by their chief, Capt. Thomas I.
Porter.

ing Bogus Check.

Columbus, Ohio, March 20.—John Thomas O'Brien was sentenced to the Ohio penitentiary for seven years for having passed a worthless check for $100 bearing the forged signature of Woodrow Wilson. The check was passed in 1912, when Wilson was governor of New Jersey. O'Brien posed of former Governor Judson Harmon.

OLD PAPERS—5c BUNDLE

TARIFF QUESTION COMING UP AGAIN

IN THE NEW HOUSE.

MAJORITY TO START THINGS

Will Formulate Program, but Fact That Administration Is Democratic May Check It—Esch Is to Handle Railroad Legislation.

By EDWARD B. CLARK.

Washington.—When congress reconvenes the committees of both house and senate will have Republican majorities in control therein. Perhaps the chief interest in one way centers in two or three great committees in the house, because these particular committees will formulate the legislation which, if enacted into law, will be most far reaching.

It must be remembered, of course, that the administration is Democratic while congress today is Republican. Therefore it seems hardly likely that any great doctrinal legislative measures of the Republican party will be made into law, because presumably a Democratic president would not approve them.

Joseph W. Fordney, Republican, of Saginaw, Mich., will be the chairman of the ways and means committee in the coming congress. It is this committee which will formulate tariff legislation. Mr. Fordney is known as a believer in a high protective tariff. There are some other Republicans on the committee who believe in a more moderate tariff, but taking the majority of the committee all in all, it represents much higher tariff views than those of the Democratic majority of the same committee in the last house.

What will the Republican party do with tariff legislation with a Democratic president in the White House? The answer is that it will do what it can in a program way at the next session or two, and then may have to let the program go over until a Republican president is elected in order to see it put into effect.

Higher Tariff May Be Prevented.

It is within the range of possibilities, or as some would prefer to put it, of probabilities, that a Democratic president will be elected and with him a Democratic congress. In such a case the Republican program, although even put into legislative form during the next session or two, never could be given the effect of law. It is certain, however, that the Republicans in the next two years in congress will formulate a new tariff bill.

The tariff we have always with us. It was with us during the war, although hostilities, through stoppage to a great extent of imports, built up about the highest tariff wall that it was possible to erect. In other words, we had comparatively few imports, and as comparatively little came into the country the tariff seemingly ceased from troubling. Nevertheless the tariff was still with us, because men in congress still were thinking on it, and were often talking on it.

John Jacob Esch, Republican, of Wisconsin, will be chairman of the committee on interstate commerce. Mr. Esch's name was connected with the first railroad rebate bill which went through the lower house in the time of Theodore Roosevelt. It was known as the Esch-Townsend measure. Curiously enough the name of Mr. Townsend, now United States senator from Michigan, was more intimately associated with the bill than that of Mr. Esch, whose name led the complex. That first railroad rebate bill, as it generally was called, went through the house, but the senate failed to act, and it was not until the next session that another bill formulated in the house, and known as the Hepburn measure, was passed by both houses and signed by the president.

Big Job for Mr. Esch.

Now Mr. Esch of Wisconsin is to have another hand at railroad legislation. It is a big job that he has ahead of him. It must be remembered again that the administration is Democratic. A bill which shall deal with the future of the railroads, and which must receive the sanction of the president in order to become a law, must be free from an approach to partisanship. Otherwise a veto may await it.

The way that the name of Representative Townsend of Michigan became so closely connected with the first railroad rebate bill of Roosevelt's time was like this: Mr. Townsend had made a study of railroad matters in his home state. He was a new member of congress and comparatively little was known about him. However, he had a plan of legislation which seemed to appeal to President Roosevelt, and he gave it his sanction. There was a great deal of comment and a lot of surprise in congress when a new member thus succeeded in getting into the presidential and congressional limelight before he had been in congress more than a few weeks.

The Republicans probably will have considerable trouble in getting any legislation through for the next year or two if it has in it any of the doctrinal policies of the party as a party. The chances are that in all big matters they will be compelled to keep away from such doctrines or else will put through the legislation knowing full well that it probably will be vetoed. Both parties are alike in this matter when the opposition has control of the White House.

SUPERSTITION AN OLD ONE

In All Ages the Belief in "Crystal Gazing" Has Been More or Less Strongly Held.

Crystal gazing, or "scrying," as writers on the subject term it, has been practiced pretty well over the world from ancient times to the present. In early times they used to sery in springs and bowls of water. In the British museum there is a crystal ball said to have been used by Dr. Dee, a wizard of the time of Queen Bess, Cagliostro, that sublime humbug of the eighteenth century, used to place a pail of water on the stage and request some child to come out of the audience and gaze into it. The child would babble of castles, pagodas and other marvelous pictures he could see in the clear liquid. The society for psychical research, certain of whose members, one would almost conclude, are ready to swallow whole superstition in any shape, has done some crystal gazing and at last accounts had glass balls for sale at its headquarters in London. The late Andrew Lang stated his belief that some people have the faculty "of seeing faces, places, persons in motion in a glass ball, in water, ink or any clear deep," but scouts the notion that scrying can accomplish anything in the way of finding lost property or in foretelling the future, as has been claimed for it by crystal gazing enthusiasts. As a crystal ball is not absolutely necessary, by all accounts, and a glass pitcher of water will do just as well, almost anybody may make experiments in scrying. The liquid first turns black, it is claimed, then come the pictures. Some of us may feel that it would require a wait of at least a hundred years before anything could be seen.

An Inside Bath Makes You Look and Feel Fresh

Says a glass of hot water with phosphate before breakfast keeps illness away.

This excellent, common-sense health measure being adopted by millions.

Physicians the world over recommend the inside bath, claiming this is of vastly more importance than outside cleanliness, because the skin pores do not absorb impurities into the blood, causing ill health, while the pores in the ten yards of bowels do.

Men and women are urged to drink each morning, before breakfast a glass of hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it, as a harmless means of helping to wash from the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels the previous day's indigestible material, poisons, sour bile and toxins; thus cleansing, sweetening and purifying the entire alimentary canal before putting more food into the stomach.

Just as soap and hot water cleanse and freshen the skin, so hot water and limestone phosphate act on the eliminative organs.

Those who wake up with bad breath, coated tongue, nasty taste or have a full, aching head, sallow complexion, acid stomach; others who are subject to bilious attacks or constipation, should obtain a quarter pound of limestone phosphate at the drug store. This will cost very little but is sufficient to demonstrate the value of inside bathing. Those who continue it each morning are assured of pronounced results, both in regard to health and appearance.

Masonic hall was filled last evening with an interested audience of women who listened to Miss Agnes Peterson tell of women in war industries and of how better conditions for women workers have resulted because of the establishment during the war of the National Woman in Industry Service under the U. S. Department of Labor. At this time in recognition of the national importance of women's work and its conditions the federal government calls upon the industries of the country to co-operate with state and federal agencies in maintaining standards. Reconstruction will give an opportunity for a new upbuilding of safeguards to conserve alike the industrial efficiency and the health of women and to make it impossible for selfish interests to exploit them as unwilling competitors in lowering standards of wages, hours and working conditions which are for the best interests alike of the workers, the industries and the citizenship of the country. Miss Peterson said that the wages of teachers too should be carefully looked into and adjusted to meet changed ideals and conditions, etc., to furnish support for the full year.

The slides were selected to illustrate the difference between desirable and undesirable working conditions.

Miss Evans, secretary of the minimum wage commission, who came in the place of Miss Burton, explained the new minimum wage bill and hoped the women of Minnesota would interest themselves in its behalf. Any one interested in a further understanding of problems relating to the subject may write the Woman in Industry Service, Department of Labor, Washington, D. C., Miss Agnes Peterson, head of Bureau for Women and Children, Old Capitol, St. Paul, or Miss Eliza P. Evans, State Capitol, St. Paul.

After the meeting the women employees of the city including teachers and nurses, assisted by a committee from the Brainerd Woman's Council of Defense, held an informal reception for the speakers, an invitation being extended to all present to remain.

Those in the receiving line beside the speakers were Miss Grewco, Miss Scott, Miss English and Mrs. Armstrong. Miss Grewco is the local chairman for Brainerd in industry and her survey for Brainerd received especially favorable comment at state headquarters. The high school Glee Club led by Miss Cronk, led in community singing during the evening and sang two songs most delightfully.

Loss Was Serious.

"You can't alarm me, Big Ben," doesn't seem at all funny in print, but at one of the Broadway theaters last night, when the leading man addressed this line to another leading character, an old gentleman in an upper box laughed so heartily, as did the audience, that his set of false teeth shot out and landed plumb in the lap of an ensign who was seated in the orchestra. The portion of the audience that witnessed the accident went into hysterics to the evident discomfort of the teeth's owner, and it was some time before the show could continue. In the meantime, the toothless individual sought out a balcony usher, to whom he tried to explain his plight, but the loss of the teeth left him more or less inarticulate. The usher, who was unaware of what happened, attributed his wild pantomimic actions to that of a crazy man, and she ran downstairs to report to the manager that "some guy in the balcony was off his nut."—New York Sun.

He Found Them.

"I have often heard that if a feller from the country got lonesome here in Kay See," remarked the gent from Jimson Junction, "all he had to do to find somebody he knowed was to go over on Twelfth street. It's a plumb fact, too! I tried it yesterday. I had been in the city three days, and was getting kinda hungry for the sight of a familiar face, and so I sauntered over on Twelfth. And inside of half an hour I had been tackled by 'leven fellers from my home town for money to get back there on."—Kansas City Star.

"MIDSUMMER NIGHT'S DREAM" PRESENTED

Mrs. James Swan and Miss Eleanor Tait of Minneapolis Give Same Benefit Child Welfare

SOCIAL NEWS GIVEN OF CROSBY

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Humble Entertained in Honor of Former's Birthday on Saturday

Crosby, Minn., March 20—Mrs. James Swan of St. Paul and Miss Eleanor Tait of Minneapolis gave "Midsummer Night's Dream" at the high school auditorium Wednesday evening for the benefit of the Child Welfare league. The women were entertained at supper at the Spaulding, fourteen plates being laid.

Strange Influence Hovers Over Play

(By United Press)

New York, March 20—Spiritualists in England and America are watching with keen interest the extraordinary and unique demonstration of spiritualistic influences which are said to have been responsible for the success of the play, "The Invisible Man," now playing at the Harris theatre here. Hereward Carrington, a well-known American psychic research authority, is among those who maintain that "The Invisible Man" is being supported by the spirits.

The play which has also been produced in London, concerns information transmitted by the spirit of a dead man for the unraveling of a crime committed before his death. He alone has the key. When the play reached New York practically every theatrical dramatic condemned it in unmeasured terms. The critics were almost a unit in declaring that the play was uninteresting, crudely constructed, and wholly improbable. They said, further, that the playwright had used ancient and melo-dramatic incidents and was "talking through his hat." Ordinarily, this should have put a damper on the production. But such was not the case.

In spite of the critics the play picked up steadily and quickly became one of the greatest successes of the year. Spiritualists, in explaining this, said that the throngs were drawn to the theatre by the spirits of departed friends and relatives. One of the odd features in connection with the play's successful run was the patronage bestowed by returning soldiers and sailors. Along Broadway it is a generally recognized fact that this is practically the only play that the fighting men are paying money to see.

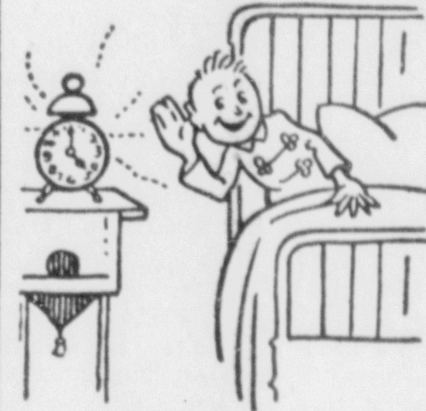

When the subject was mentioned to Bartley Cushing, the famous American producer who staged "The Invisible Man," he declared that there was no doubt in his mind as to the influences hovering over the play. Even while the play was in rehearsal, he said, the spiritualistic power was in operation.

changed my views. I positively affirm that spiritualistic assistance was given us in making the play ready for the public. I repeatedly felt strange influences guiding me and directing me in my efforts to secure certain novel effects. Even the actors felt these influences. I cannot explain it, but I felt that extra mundane influences were hovering over the Harris theatre. Miss Flora MacDonald, who, in the play, receives the message from the spirit which gives the clue to the real criminal, has become so converted that she has received a message from her father who died last year. As for myself, I am beginning a complete study of spiritualism."

"Milady's Wardrobe"

St. Paul, March 20—Milady's wardrobe—now in the making—will be a strict departure from anything that had to do with the war.

The spring styles now showing reflect the thrills of homecomings and reunions. Two years of nervous tension has completely reacted upon woman's dress so now there's to be an orgy of frills, furbelows and fantasies.

Just why "dust color" is to be the prevailing shade in women's dress dealers do not definitely explain—but they say its "One of the very best spring colors—and its new."

The reporter had a hunch that the dust color popularity resulted from a thinning of khaki dyes—but he was promptly and properly "sat upon" for his insinuations.

Jackets that cannot possibly be buttoned across the front are to be the things. They will be re-inforced by fancy sewed in vests of all sorts and descriptions and sh-sh-sh-h-h!

The girls won't have to wear waists at all with these new spring suits. The vest will furnish all the covering necessary.

For the northwest trade manufacturers are making particular styles in skirts and its costing them more goods to do it. Many women of this section do not favor split or slit skirts so it was necessary to fill up the skirt with extra flaps.

NOT SO BIG

It has always been our impression that one million gallons of water was a large quantity, and that Brainerd was drawing heavily on its supply, but upon investigation we find that we have been wrongly impressed. One million gallons per day figures about 700 gallons per minute. We are told that an iron mine pumping only 700 gallons-per-minute is a "dry mine," and to miners the remark "1000 gallons-per-minute" passes in one ear and out of the other; 2000 gallons-per-minute is considered a large quantity; 3000 and 5000 gallons-per-minute constitutes a "wet mine" and means 5 million to 7 million gallons per day. We are told that a 700 gallon stream at a mine is only a small one as it appears at the top of the shaft and trickles away to a new resting place. Even 1000 gallons-per-minute (1,440,000 gallons per day) is a far smaller stream than one suspects. So we are NOT SO BIG after all.

DID IT FOR EXCITEMENT

It is reported George Hyatt, Anoka Herald printer, committed the various alleged robberies of banks, etc., for the excitement that he gained. The average small town newspaper, if it heeds to the line, furnishes excitement enough for editor and staff of workers. In other words, Hyatt not finding excitement enough setting type for the Herald, tackled banks, etc. to satisfy his unnatural craving.

After the robbery the Anoka Herald certainly did steam up in the way of excitement, actually holding over a day on publication in order to get the full story of the alleged delinquencies of its printer.

One or more of the range towns are jealous and kicking, but we are glad that our neighbor is to have a court house commensurate with its importance and also a new N. P. depot of nearly equal cost. Gee whiz, how delighted we are."

WHY YOU SHOULD VOTE WATER WORKS BONDS

A series of articles prepared by the Water & Light Board to explain why new water works are necessary, what is planned to replace the old works, and the suitability of that which is advocated.

 The board has been able in the last year to get a good check or count on the quantity of water required by Brainerd. For several years a daily count has been taken of the water pumped, but the method was only approximate and subject to great errors, as has been amply proved. The method depended on the piston displacement, that is, while the pump was in action. As the wear of a steam pump is in the piston cylinder, it is obvious that if the pump does not work perfectly the leakage (or slippage) is great and the calculated amount of water is not displaced with each stroke of the piston. How much this loss is, is purely a guess; usually an allowance is made for slippage, but when a pump becomes old and worn, this allowance is not only surprisingly great but extremely variable.

Without Brainerd growing noticeably, in any sense effecting the consumption of water, our calculation showed a constantly increasing total per annum of large proportion and the per capita consumption made it appear that our people were in the class of extravagant water users. Our best guess would place the actual consumption of nearer one half the calculated amount. But in our work on the new supply we kept in mind constantly the larger figure, feeling that if that total could be obtained we would be absolutely safe.

Since running the electrically driven centrifugal pumps, with which slippage don't enter and capacity is always being pumped, we find that 1000 gallons per minute is ample nearly all the time. Our maximum demand is 1,500,000 gallons per day. In terms of water-consumption, that figure is not a large one. With new lines and leakage eliminated, another substantial reduction will follow; of that we are certain. What the actual consumption will be, that figure can only be approximate. The future will demand increases—let us hope so, and that only error will be in the date when enlargements will be needed.

The important influences in per capita consumption are:

Industries
 Wealth and habits of people
 Lawns
 Street sprinkling and cleaning
 Schools, fires, sewers
 Flowage to prevent freezing
 Leakage and waste
 Good quality of water, plenty of it, and good pressure.

The use of water falls into the following classes:

(1) Domestic use
 (2) Commercial use
 (3) Public use
 (4) Loss and waste

For each the gallons per capita can be estimated from statistics gathered for many years from many towns. The maximum consumption for a town the size and kind of Brainerd should be 1,150,000 gallons per day.

There is no question about being able to meet this demand in the easiest manner. The figures may look big to the layman, but in reality the quantity is small when it compared to quantities of water pumped daily in our mining operations.

Former President has Keen Field Naturalist as Well as Hunter of Game, and Sought to Prevent Extinction of Species.

By EDWARD B. CLARK.

Washington.—Before the members of the Roosevelt permanent memorial national committee are two plans suggestive of the form which the memorial should take. Both of them are appealing and it seems to be generally believed that both may be adopted.

One of the plans has in view the providing of a fund for the Americanization of incoming foreigners, and the other is for a fund for the establishment in Washington of a foundation for the conservation of wild life, primarily in the United States but incidentally throughout the world.

It is with the second plan that this article concerns itself. The Americanization plan probably will strike all Americans, and especially those who knew Theodore Roosevelt's interest in the subject, as being fitting and proper. Exactly the same words may be used concerning the second plan.

Theodore Roosevelt through all his life was a conservationist. He believed that the useful birds and mammals should be preserved, but also that sportsmen should be allowed to take their toll under such restrictions as would insure perpetuation of species. The economic value of the birds and mammals was strongly urged by Colonel Roosevelt. His interest was keen and his writings and his actions give sufficient evidence of his anxiety lest the wild life should perish from the earth.

For the Conservation Plan.

Among the supporters of the conservation of wild life plan which has been submitted to Col. William B. Thompson, chairman of the memorial national committee, are George Shinn, 3rd, famous faunal naturalist; E. W. Nelson, chief of the bureau of biological survey in the department of agriculture; Charles Sheldon, sportsman, naturalist and conservationist, and John B. Burnham, president of the American Game Protective association.

The contention of these men is that the colonel's well-known interest in nature throughout his life, both as one of the keenest and most observant of American field naturalists, and as a hunter of big game, justifies in full measure a memorial of the kind proposed.

The project calls for the establishment at Washington of an institution to be known as the "Roosevelt foundation for the conservation of wild life." It is proposed that the foundation be governed by a board of trustees under whom there shall be a director to control its activities. In a general way the activities will include: Investigations necessary to supply accurate information concerning wild life; to secure data concerning valuable species threatened with extermination and to make the foundation a central bureau from which conservationists can obtain the necessary facts to work effectively.

Educational work would be undertaken to keep the public informed of the importance and value of the birds and mammals. This part of the work, of course, would be undertaken largely through publication and by encouraging the activities of organizations and individuals.

Strongly Urged by E. W. Nelson.

It was E. W. Nelson, chief of the bureau of biological survey, who after Colonel Roosevelt, then President Roosevelt, had unburdened himself on the subject of the "nature fakers," wrote to the greater naturalists of the country and asked them to give their views concerning the evil which the president had attacked in his interview, an interview which, I hope with becoming modesty, I can say I wrote.

The great naturalists of the country, one and all, stood by the president in his expressed views on the subject of the men who wrote untruths concerning nature. Today Mr. Nelson said in connection with the proposed memorial:

"Such an institution as the foundation is urgently needed. Most well-informed people now appreciate the value and importance of wild life and the need for its conservation. The perpetuation of our bird life is essential to successful agriculture and forest growth, and the perpetuation of wild game is an insurance for the opportunity of healthful out-of-door activities, such as those which transformed Colonel Roosevelt from weakly youth to the magnificent physique we all admired. This foundation presents an opportunity that has few parallels. The institution will be unique and will quickly become of world-wide influence."

Again it can be said that the men who love nature, who love proper sport, but who support conservation of the wild life, believe that a memorial in the proposed form would meet in all ways the wishes of the man in whose honor its creation is proposed.

(By the Overseas Camp Dodger News Service)

Gondrecourt, France (Special by Mail).—Men in the Eighty-eight division are now being entertained with shows, minstrels, movies, vaudeville, and singing every night in every one of the thirty towns of the Gondrecourt billeting area.

Under the direction of Lieut. Arthur Kachel, division entertainment officer, the plan to keep the men amused has developed into a monster theatrical system. Every unit has been urged to get up some kind of a show and these productions are being sent from place to place both in the Eighty-eight and other divisions.

In addition to the shows by troupes of the division, outfits of entertainers from other units are being secured for the men. The other divisions are co-operating heartily in an exchange of players. Everything possible is being done by the division officers to furnish the men with amusements.

Lieut. Kachel also is forming a big divisional show and it soon will be ready to start upon a tour of the towns embracing an area of about thirty square miles.

The hardest problem of all has been to find places where the entertainments can be given. In the larger towns this has not been so great, but in the many little country places there are great difficulties. In some of the towns French billets, and also American, have been converted into temporary theatres. Stages have been erected and as the troupes carry their own scenery, creditable entertainments are always given.

Another hard condition is the lighting situation. Candles and oil lamps are used almost exclusively in the Gondrecourt area for illumination. Big carbide lamps are now being secured for this purpose.

An unusually large amount of talent has been discovered in the division and some of the acts are as good as will be seen in the higher class of vaudeville houses. The humor is original and the songs are mostly catchy parodies on popular pieces.

A large number of musical instruments have been secured from various sources and some of the troupes have good orchestras accompanying them. One company of musicians has toured practically all of this section of France and calls for them have been received from some far distant places.

Every man who has talent for acting or for writing catchy and humorous songs and witticisms for the "boards" is being used. "The more 'stuff' we have to work with, the better will be our entertainments," Lieut. Kachel has informed the men, and that means more happy men in the division.

Conference Discusses Rehabilitation Work

(By United Press)

New York, March 20.—Delegates here today from all the allied countries are giving serious consideration to the rehabilitation of disabled soldiers and sailors who had part in the great war.

The conference, which will last until March 22, is under the auspices of the Red Cross Institute for Crippled and Disabled Men and the Red Cross Institute for the Blind.

Some of the best known men in the field of rehabilitation delivered addresses and outlined plans for the care of the disabled. Among these was Dr. Maurice Bourillon, president of the Permanent International Committee on War Cripples; Edmund Drenant, director of the School of Re-education for Maimed Soldiers, at Montpellier, France and many others.

Belgium, England, Canada and other countries were represented at the meeting by experienced workers, and the Federal Board for Vocational Education was represented by Dr. C. A. Prosser, James P. Monroe and Arthur E. Holder.

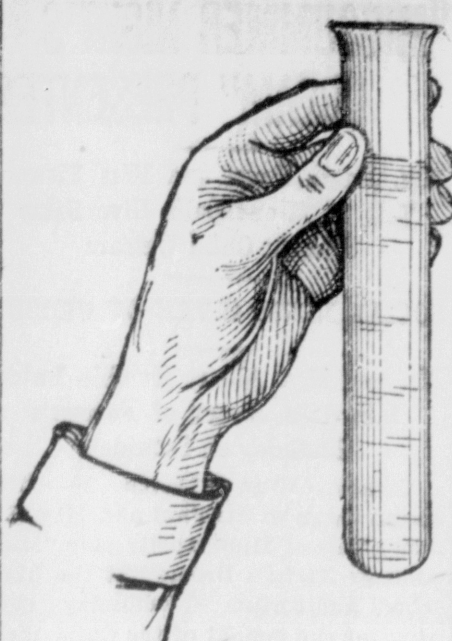

A wide range of subjects were discussed, including a national program of rehabilitation, the American program of compensation and functional restoration.

The American delegates listened with keen interest to the details of the rehabilitation work as carried on in Europe. As a result of the conference great impetus was given the movement here to care for the disabled.

The interests of employers in rehabilitation work were also discussed at some length.

HEALTH TALK

BY DR. VALENTINE MOIT.

All the blood in the body goes thru the kidneys within a few minutes. Therefore the kidneys are very important in health or disease because they filter out of the blood most of the waste (poisonous) substances and the blood then flows on toward the heart then the kidney vein. What the kidney takes out of the blood forms urine. So it is very important to have the water tested by a chemist, at least once a year. I would suggest that everybody send a sample to Dr. Pierce's Laboratory in Buffalo, N. Y., and receive back a thorough chemical and microscopic test, free of charge.

The kidneys and bladder suffer from the wear and tear, and we get chronic inflammations sometimes indicated by backache, painful voiding of water—dull, heavy feelings. Perhaps the urine is stored up in the system in excessive amount, and consequently when the waste salts are deposited in muscles and joints one suffers from Lumbago (pain in back), rheumatic pains, gout, etc.

Nothing will act so nicely as "Auric" (anti-uric acid)—a recent discovery of Dr. Pierce's which can be had at all drug stores. "Auric" washes away the poisons, cleanses the bladder and kidneys—restoring them antiseptic—consequently one is soon cured of Lumbago, rheumatism, gout, and the body is put into a clean, healthy state.

(By United Press)

Washington, March 20.—Claims presented to the War Risk Insurance Bureau by disabled soldiers show that only a small portion of them were disabled in battle as compared with those remaining in camp.

Of the first 6,396 claims sent into the bureau only one and three-tenths per cent—83 men—received their disabilities in battle, while 68.9 per cent were disabled in camp, either in this country or overseas.

This percentage will, of course, be greatly altered as the men, returning from France, turn in their claims, yet officials of the bureau predict that the majority of claims will come from men disabled while in training. As the soldier becomes more thoroughly trained in the methods of warfare and camp life, the danger of being disabled is lessened, it was pointed out.

For the first time within the memory of man in Brainerd the Western Union has ceased to keep its Brainerd office open after supper. The usual hours are 8 to 12, 1 to 6 P. M., and 7 to 8 P. M.

Now the 7 to 8 P. M. session has been discontinued and night letters, etc., will have to be taken to the depot to insure transmission.

Operators at the depot, by the way, have their hands full with train business and the commercial work of the Western Union therefore becomes an added burden.

The Chamber of Commerce and business men generally as well as the local news service is vitally interested in the Western Union schedule. Some reason should be assigned for discontinuing the office after 6 P. M.

Spring will soon be here, tourists arriving by the score and business generally increasing and a Western Union office closed after 6 P. M. will make the town appear dead.

Another point brought up by a business man is the fact that the railway company has no method for delivery of telegrams received after 6 P. M. For instance, if a lady wired her husband at 6:30 from St. Paul to be at the midnight train to meet her, and providing the sender has no telephone in Brainerd, such message would undoubtedly go undelivered and the man would probably receive it next morning after his wife had arrived on the train and walked home alone.

Brainerd's city election on April will behold a field of candidates for aldermen. The first ward to date has five contestants, the second ward four, the third wards two, the fourth ward five and the fifth ward six. Two aldermen are to be selected from each ward, one for a four year and one for a two year term.

John A. Hoffbauer, of the Dispatch, is a candidate for alderman in the fifth ward. If the voters of the ward want an enterprising, progressive representative on the city council, they can not do better than elect Mr. Hoffbauer. He'll be on the job all the time.

James R. Smith, a former assessor of the city, has announced his candidacy for the position. He is a real estate man, experienced in values of realty and personal property and knows the city thoroughly.

H. F. Michael, well known business man, has announced his candidacy for alderman of the second ward for the two year term. This is the first time friends of Mr. Michael have been successful in inducing him to enter the lists for office.

BUTTER KIST POPCORN

New Electrical Roaster Installed by Ivan C. Sheets at His Lunch Room, 6th and Laurel

A "butter kist popcorn" electrical roaster has been installed by Ivan C. Sheets at his lunch room, corner of Sixth and Laurel streets. Every kernel of popcorn is individually buttered, making it a most delicious confection. The popcorn after being popped rests on a sheet kept warm by electricity. A section of the machine is devoted to roasting peanuts and another to storing salted peanuts and all products are kept at a warm temperature.

As every one is aware, a cold peanut is not half as palatable as a hot one and the same applies to popcorn.

At the Best Tomorrow

Magnetic, beautiful and charming as ever is Madge Kennedy in her newest Goldwyn Picture, "Day Dreams," written for her by Cosmo Hamilton. The star of "The Kingdom of Youth" and "A Perfect Lady" productions, that have enthralled picture enthusiasts in every part of the country, has given even more of her wondrous self and her unerring sense of comedy in the picturization of the brilliant Cosmo Hamilton story.

Madge Kennedy's joyous mood is given full expression in "Day Dreams." Never has the delightful artist, with whom success has become a habit, been seen in a more lovable role than as Primrose. It held an appeal greater than any character she had previously been asked to portray and the enthusiasm with which she entered work on the production prompted Goldwyn to announce that "Day Dreams" is certain to be the most acclaimed of all Madge Kennedy productions.

Camouflage in Reverses.

Reversal of the camouflage principle, greatly increasing the visibility of its subjects instead of concealing them by blending them with the background, is declared a possible peace development by the naval officer who developed that particular nature-faking system. Since every positive has its negative, color applications opposite to those used for confusing the eye are being studied for a possible standardized system of marking distant objects conspicuous.—Popular Mechanics Magazine.

AVIATORS TO PATROL WOODS

Idea Is Called Cheapest Possible Insurance for Vast Tracts of Valuable Timber.

Northern Minnesota's vast expanse of forest lands, dotted with hundreds of lakes, will be patrolled by hydroplanes if a plan just proposed by W. T. Cox, state forester, is carried into effect.

Mr. Cox has obtained the co-operation of Congressman Carl C. Van Dyke, who will endeavor to induce the federal government to establish a naval training station on Lake Superior, preferably at Duluth, Minn., furnishing the necessary buildings and equipment. The state forestry department could furnish several aviators, who are former rangers, now in the service of the United States and Canada as flyers, to direct the patrol work, which, Mr. Cox suggests, could be made part of the training course.

It would not be difficult for the naval air students to cover a large part of St. Louis and Cook counties, which are particularly subject to destructive forest fires and which are plentifully supplied with lakes, thus insuring the flying boats safe landing places. Mr. Cox says a hydroplane flying high would enable an observer to "spot" fires over an immense area. The speed of the aircraft would enable him to determine the exact locality of the fires and insure quick action in fighting them.

The air-patrol plan is the cheapest possible insurance for vast tracts of timber that are becoming priceless, Mr. Cox asserts.

BROKE AWAY FROM POVERTY

Successful Men, Born Poor, Soon Began to Hustle for the Highly Desirable Mazuma.

Somewhere in the obituary of almost every successful American you will find this sentence: "He began life a poor boy."

Our great men seem to have had a positive genius for picking out poor parents. Although poverty at birth is looked upon as an asset rather than a liability, most successful Americans, notwithstanding the tremendous advantage poverty gave them, began to hustle for riches before their milk teeth had fallen out.

Being born poor may be an asset, but it becomes a liability if you stay that way. When you are a pink, stub-nosed baby being carried around on a pillow and exhibited to the neighbors you are fortunate if poor, but a great deal more unfortunate if you remain so.

Most of the men who have succeeded in getting their names in the United States histories, in public libraries and on cigar labels selected parents who were constantly bumping into people on the streets to whom they owed money, but the greatness of these men was displayed in the neatness and dispatch with which they succeeded in leaving something more substantial for their own children than pink complexion and waiting lists of creditors. —Thrill Magazine.

SEES NEW SPIRIT IN TRADE WORLD

Speaker Asserts Constructive Energies and Burying Cutthroat Competition Will Carry American Flag to Every Land.

Minneapolis, March 20.—A new spirit is dominating American business—one of the great unseen things for which Americans died on the battlefields of France—a spirit which is moving the nation toward constructive energies, is burying cutthroat competition and will carry the Stars and Stripes to every country, bearing the message of humanity and the willingness to help without the desire of personal gain. These were among the deductions of William C. Redfield, secretary of commerce and labor, presented to Northwest business men in an eloquent address in the Auditorium.

Mr. Redfield, as one of the principal speakers at the Better Business convention, which opened a two-day session, appealed to business interests of the nation to profit from Germany, a nation, he said, that had developed business and industry to a high degree of efficiency but which could not survive because it was rotten at the core—without a soul. In the new theories of business, Mr. Redfield saw a more human and comradely relation between employer and employee, and a keener realization of this nation's duty to the world in aiding the stricken nations and cultivating foreign trade.

Success Not Final Test.

"What is America's business to be?" he asked. "In quantity? Shall we expand and invade foreign shores purely for the desire of personal gain, regardless of humanitarian principles? 'Success in business is not the final test. Six years ago we felt the appeal of German business success strongly. We marveled at that nation's perfect organization. Her wares had found ready markets in our country, in nearly every other country, too. 'That great commercial machine could not survive because it was rotten at the heart. When I think of the Germany of today and the Germany of six years ago I am thrilled with the truth of that proverb, 'What shall it profit a nation if it gain the world and lose its own soul?'

"The crime of Germany was committed by those who stole the soul from the nation. When the test of God was placed on her, Germany crumbled. What have we learned from Germany? That the life of a nation is in the abundance of its soul and in its manhood."

BANK ROBBER IS INDICTED

George Hyatt of Anoka, Minn., Also Accused of Burglary.

Minneapolis, March 20.—The Hennepin county grand jury indicted George Hyatt, Anoka deacon, on a charge of robbery in the first degree, in connection with the hold-up at the First State Bank of Champlin last Friday.

Hyatt also was indicted twice by the Anoka county grand jury on charges of grand larceny in the first degree and for burglary.

Hyatt is reported to have confessed to County Attorney William M. Nash on Tuesday that he staged the hold-up at the Champlin bank. He is also alleged to have signed a written confession for W. A. Blanchard, Anoka county attorney, in which he stated that he participated in 15 robberies in Anoka during the last 10 years.

Reading advertisements will save your time

The wise shopper keeps in touch with the advertisements of her favorite stores. When she sees announcements of goods in which she is interested, she knows right where to go to find them. She knows when they are put on sale.

When parents decide to send a boy or girl away to school, they cannot take the time to go and inspect a great number of schools from which to choose. They study the advertisements of schools and to the ones that seem to offer right conditions they write for catalogs.

When a man decides to buy an automobile, he reads carefully the advertisements which tell about the different makes of cars and then he calls to see only those in which he is interested. He does not start out by hunting up the salesrooms and looking at all the cars sold.

Make a practice of reading them. You will find your time saved and your money better spent.
